5. It was cold. The man shivered. He was worried about what had happened. He didn't know what to do.

Write the opening of a story about this man. What has happened to him?

He didn't know what to do as the arctic blast layered the town. It wasn't a normal day it felt abnormal. Feeling isolated with despair this innocent man, as intelligent as dolphins, was snuggled up in his warm sensations of comfort. Looking at the white blanket in front of him he was in shock and in sudden anxiety.

The man continued to shiver and feeling hot in seconds he was confused. Upon finding out what happened he was depressed and absolutely disheartened. The man was old very old with a age of 76. As bright as the sun the smartness and friendliness of him made him glow. In just minutes he was cold and his body shut. Rapidly shivering a bundle of nerves travelled downwards in his icy body. What was it that was making him anxious and really disquieted?

By looking at the news he became fierce and in fear the cold ice cubes dripping from his pale eyes melted on his wrinkly cheeks. Tomas! Cried the old man's maid. Running as quick as a lighting flash she looked at Tomas and called the ambulance. Unfortunately the hearing of the coronavirus made him very panic-stricken and so he closed his dry eyelids. The tale of this man was tragic and so never payattention at the news if it is very frightening. This is what happens.

Excellent work Sukhwinder!

I really like the way you have described the how the man feels.

Could you add a paragraph describing the maid discovering him and how she felt?
